

Contents

Acknowledgments iii
Acronyms v
Executive Summary vii
Introduction
The language of nuclear disarmament 1
Ray Acheson

PART I: CHALLENGES

Chapter 1

Rhetoric vs. reality: the political economy of nuclear weapons and their elimination 9
Darwin BondGraham, Jacqueline Cabasso, Nicholas Robinson,
Will Parrish and Ray Acheson

Chapter 2

NATO nuclear sharing: an anachronistic obstacle to nuclear disarmament and regional security 33
Martin Butcher and Nicola Butler

Chapter 3

US-UK nuclear sharing: deterring disarmament 44
John Ainslie

Chapter 4

Nuclear energy: shackling progress toward a nuclear weapon free world 58

Chapter 5

The US-India nuclear deal: violating norms, terminating futures 62
Andrew Lichterman and M.V. Ramana

Chapter 6

Nuclear futures for the Middle East: impact on the goal of a weapons of mass destruction-free zone 71
Merav Datan

Chapter 7

Iran's challenge to the nuclear order 87
Michael Veiluva

Chapter 8

Missiles, missile defence, and space weapons 113
Jürgen Scheffran, Ray Acheson and Andrew Lichterman

PART II: CHOICES

Chapter 9

- Dismantling discourses: nuclear weapons and human security 127
Jacqueline Cabasso and Ray Acheson

Chapter 10

- The relevance of gender for eliminating weapons of mass destruction 143
Carol Cohn with Felicity Hill and Sara Ruddick

Chapter 11

- Reaching nuclear disarmament 159
John Burroughs

Chapter 12

- A nuclear weapons convention: framework for a nuclear weapon free world 181
John Loretz, Jürgen Scheffran, Alyn Ware and Tim Wright

Chapter 13

- Towards a fissile material (cut-off) treaty 188
Zia Mian

Chapter 14

- Learn, adapt, succeed: potential lessons from the Ottawa and Oslo processes for other disarmament and arms control challenges 197
John Borrie, Maya Brehm, Silvia Cattaneo and David Atwood

- Endnotes 210

- Selected Bibliography and Suggested Reading 247